DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1 to 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lawrence et al (US Patent 5,948,353) for the reasons set forth in the previous office action dated 4-26-05.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 6-13-05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. It was submitted that inventors have discovered a gray iron alloy composition containing the presence of Cu and Mo in amounts that have a cooperative effect that provides several unexpected advantages, including increasing the tensile strength without substantially increasing the hardness and reducing the machinability of the alloy in comparison to conventional gray iron. It is the examiner's position that Lawrence in claims 1 and 4 of column 4 discloses a similar gray cast iron wherein the prior art ranges of 0.25 to 0.75%Mo and 0.3 to 1%Cu overlap applicant's ranges of 0.6 to 0.8%Mo and 0.3 to 0.6%Cu, respectively, and such overlap establishes a prima facie case of obviousness because it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to select the claimed alloy ranges from the broader disclosure of the prior art since the prior art has the same utility for brake drum or brake rotor. Moreover, since applicant has not demonstrated (e.g. by comparative test data), that the more narrowly claimed Mo and Cu ranges are somehow critical and productive of new and unexpected results, then claims would not patentably distinguish over prior art.

4. Applicant amended independent claims to recite "consisting essentially of" to exclude the Sn content of 0.02 to 0.07% taught by the Lawrence alloy. It is the examiner's position that this difference is merely the omission of an element with the obvious consequent loss of its function which would not patentably distinguish claim over prior art.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
